JOSEPH BONAPARTE AND THE CROWN OF

JOSEPH BONAPARTE AND THE CROWN OF MEXICO.—It may not be forgotten that a member of the Bonaparte family was offered forty years ago the crown of Mexico. The story is told by the Emperor himself in his sketch of Joseph, eldest brother of the first Napoleon: "While Joseph was living, as a philosopher, on the banks of the Delaware, thinking of nothing but of doing good to those around him, he received a proposal to those around him, he received a proposal which surprised and touched him. A depu-tation of Mexicans came to him to place at his disposal the crown of Mexico. The ex-King of Naples and Spain answered the deputation nearly in these terms: 'I have borne two crowns, and I would not take a single step for a third. Nothing can be more flattering to me than to see men who,

when I was in Madrid, refused to recognize my authority, come now in my exile to ask of me to put myself at their head. But I do the excellence of republican institutions for America. Preserve them, then, as the precious gifts of Providence. Put an end to your intestine quarrels; imitate the United States, and look out among your fellow-citizens for some one more capable than I am to play the great part of Washington.'"—[Euvres de Napoleon III., vol. 2.

The topic of discussion in this city is the draft. The morning of the 15th inst. the drafting commenced at 57 Carondolet street.

The large office of Captain Hubbard was filled to overflowing with citizens, principally of the Fourth District, upon which stained all over with the blood of her children doing battle because of slavery, she The modus operandi was simple. During the whole performance not an ill word was expressed. Everything passed off in a quiet manner. Several Government clerks were drafted, among whom were two in Captain Hubbard's office, who were en-An the worst of it appears to be, that these terrors and outrages increase, after it is plainly demonstrated that so far as the gaged in enrolling.

And there is something that approaches the awfully mysterious, in the influence that can yet make her shut her eyes to facts and results, plain it would seem to all the rest of the world, that slavery having destroyed itself by its own madness, little is left for any to do but to bury it away out of the sight of men. oresent Secretary of State, and Judge Ato-che, recently of the Provost Court. It will take three weeks to ascertain who are draft-ed. The process of the draft is slow, but everything is done in an able manner, and reflects much credit upon Capt. Hubbard. To-day drafting was again resumed in the Fourth District. Eight representatives of the Legislature, ten or twelve city police-men, and two of Capt. Burke's special de-tectives were drawn. I understand some

We repeat it, Kentucky learns but slowy, since not only has the war taught her ittle of what is for her peace and perma-lent good, but she has even abjured the sentiments largely entertained, the advance made nearly a score of years ago. Taking the views of the leading men there as some evidence of what had been achieved in estimating her true interests, recurring to movements had in her legislature as far moved, under which certified copies it shall be lawful for such marshal to seize such back as 1850, and her movements have been property and convey it to some convenient of the court sentiments largely entertained, the advance

This draft is no respecter of persons. In one neighborhood forty-five men of considerable income drew the prize, while the poor ones, who almost doubled the rich, came off with a draft of two, and those two were so very poor it would be impossible for them to procure substitutes. The whole number drafted amounts to 800 men, of whom fully 500 are rich men. Strange to say the remaining 300 are so far below the average standard in life that And to prove that this is so, we need only quote from an article in the Louisville Courier of February, 1849, that print which at a later period abjuring its old positions to become the special champion of slavery and the rebellion, went through a series of ignominious flights, to perish, at last, we believe, somewhere in Tennessee. At that period—1849—there had been sundry movements in the Kentucky Legislature looking to emancipation; and although they failed, they looked promising enough, it appears, to call forth the following from the print in question: they can scarcely procure enough to keep body and soul together. The draft has occassioned considerable oad feeling in the city. Had the citizens been allowed to vote at the Presidential election it would have occasioned none During the canvass the loyal people "Emancipation is not dead in Kentucky, cooked upon the election as one upon which which would depend the future destiny of the country. But they do not think that nor is it likely to die Such principles as it has never die, nor can they be killed. Nor do its enemies believe for a moment that it the Government, after refusing them the privilege of voting on so important an ocasion, ought to subject them to military ervice.

I had the pleasure a few days since of meeting in the True Delta office, with Mr. E. W. Halford, correspondent of the Indianapolis State Journal. Since his arrival in this city he has paid a flying visit to Pen-sacola, where his health has rapidly im-proved. He is a gentleman with whom it a pleasure to be acquainted, and is worthy the able paper he represents.

General John M. Palmer, recently ap-

Palmer seconded the nomination in an admirable speech, during which he said he had known Mr. that in one sense, Kentucky has made a proper to the remedy afforded by this act, but his content of the many pointed defined on the debate of which we have referred."

Now who would suppose that these brave words found currency in Kentucky as far back as 1849—some sixteen years ago—and is it not clear that notwithstanding the terrible experiences of the intervening period, the remedy afforded by this act, but his the nomination in an admirable speech, during which he said he had known Mr. Lincoln a long time and could testify to his noble qualities of head and heart. Mr. Lincoln was an admirable lawyer, a profound statesman, and honest man. "Sir," said Mr. Palmer, "I know and appreciate his great abilities, having often met him on the stump in Illinois when Lincoln was a Whig and I was a Democrat." Then looking comically confused he continued, addressing Henry S. Lane, of Indiana, who

It was a fine compliment from one great man to another, and of course "brought down the house."

Some three years since we visited General Palmer's dominions in the "State of Macoupin," (as the county of that name is called), for the purpose of taking an airing before the people on one of our hobbies—free masonry—and to a coterie of his friends and neighbors, composed of both political parties, related the foregoing anecdote. But the men who had always known Mr. Palmer did not appreciate the story, and one, a sturdy old Democrat, drily remarked, "Well, I don't agree with John in politics, but by thunder he wouldn't take to the woods for Abraham Lincoln or any other man on top of the ground." We then and there determined never to repeat that anecdote within the limits of the "State of Macoupin." Intellectually Gen. Palmer is the peer of any living American, and the been content to permit slavery to keep its forces together, to marshal them under the "gradual emancipation" policy for a longer conflict, there is no knowing now, when we should have been rid of our troubles, or when we should fairly have been launched on a more fortunate career.

The mere execution of an instrument does not impose any duty in relation to the stamp. If it is stamped and delivered according to the law in the country where the delivery takes place it is enough. At all events no stamp is required by our law. If, however, a letter of attorney is made and delivered in the United States, though the power conferred by it is to be executed in a foreign country, i should be stamped when delivered.

The word filibuster is derived from the river Viy, in Holland. In the seventeenth century, small, fast-sailing vessels, of about one hundred tons burden, were built on this river, and such a boat was called by the Dutch a Vlyboot. They soon became known in England as fly boats, a term which was transferred to Spanish as flibote, or by a softening of the first syllable, as filibote. The buccaneers of the West Indies found these light Dutch vessels exactly suited to their service, and, from their using them, the French cruisers gave these pirates the name of flibustiers or filibustiers, an appellation subsequently introduced in-

In the city all is quiet and as caim as a Sunday morning in a country village. Beyond the limits of the wharves, which are now thronged with vessels of all classes and sizes, unloading government stores and private stocks of merchandise, or taking on board the heavy bales of cotton or tierces of rice on account of the Treasury or the city of Savannah, nothing denoting great activity strikes the eye. Out of the range of the influence of this little nervous world of industry and commerce, the potent spell of dustry and commerce, the potent spell of poverty, idleness and a singular lethargy broods over everything, and suggests death broods over everything, and suggests death and decay as the speedy end of all within the circle of its magic power. The streets, perhaps, are not deserted by pedestrians; but those who walk about move along with such a listless, objectless air that one would naturally suppose they came out into the quiet streets and the sunlight merely to pass away the time, which seems to hang heavily on their hands, and contemplate in a slow, heavy, sleepy way the change that slow, heavy, sleepy way the change that var has wrought in a once busy, bustling ity. Occasionally one meets women, chil dren, or servants hurrying, with basket in band, to the city store, to draw the rations given by the relief committee to the needy; and they accelerate their steps only because it is a sortic against the wolf that prowls around their door, which, to be successful, must be rapid and prompt.

On the corners of the streets, or in front of capacious stores, whose closed doors and blinds tell a story of dullness and decay, are seen groups of citizens, some in the dirty gray of the rebel army, others in the coarse butternut colored cloth of country manu-acture, and still others in dilapidated, old-fishioned garments, threadbare and closefacture, and still others in dilapidated, oldfashioned garments, threadbare and glossy, recalling better days. Men in all colors assemble and talk in low tones, slowly and sadly shake their heads in a spiritless way, watch the hands of the Exchange clock as they trace the fleeting hours on the dial, changing their position as the lengthening shadows creep up to them, that they may enjoy the warmth of the sun's rays, and smoke their pipes with a contemplative air, until the shades of evening gather

The Correspondents at Charleston concur in describing the destructive effects of the bombardment for the last two years and more as very extensive and severe. The city has been almost utterly ruined, and a considerable portion of it almost entirely so. Yet the uniform system of lying in "gallant and chivalric" rebeldom has been applied to this matter amongst others, and Charleston papers steadily affected a contempt of the ineffectual and innocuous operations of the besieging party. It would appear from the semi-rebel organs of the State, that our copperhead Legislature really supposed they were putting a finality upon the amendment question by giving a positive vote against the ratificais neatly and irrevocably committed to the donkey policy of holding back. Two boys who have had some experience at the case. Inquire at this office. tf

It has been known for some time that colored men have been confined in the work-house, and some of them in irons, for no other reason or offense than that they refused to go into the army as substitutes r at all. This fact coming to the knowledge f General Palmer, he sent an order to the work-house that all confined there for any such reason should be released and brought to department headquarters. Accordingly eight negroes who had been thus confined were brought to headquarters Saturday morning. They had been placed in the work-house by men who claimed to be their masters, and who intended to force them by that means to go into the army, they expecting, of course, to realize handsomely by the transaction. One of these negroes had been brought here from Georgia by a sutler of an Indiana regiment, who first endeavored to persuade him to enlist, as a substitute, intending to pocket the proceeds himself; and failing in that, placed him in the work-house to force him to consent. The men who caused the rest of the negroes to be imprisoned had no better title to their bodies or services. They were all released.

NEW REGIMENTS,-The new regiments of "blue coats" that crowd the steamboats and cars, and now daily throng the streets of this city, en route for rebeldom, would convince the most skeptical of those who doubt the resources of the North, that the Government has abundant means at its command to crush the rebellion, The 153d Indiana and 153d Illinois regiments arrived yesterday en route for the front. The latter was raised principally at Chicago, and is about 1,000 strong. The 187th Ohio and 188th Ohio regiments arrived during Sunday night, by river from Cincinnati. A large proportion of each of these regiments are men who have already served a term in the army, and they will soon become as effective as veteran regiments. If we may judge from appearance, they are composed of the best material. The 187th Ohio and 153d Indiana left last night for Nashville.

FATAL STABBING AFFAIR,-A young man named John L. White was fatally stabbed Sunday night about 9 o'clock, on the corner of First and Market streets by a man named Patrick Higgins, It seems Higgins and several others were standing on the corner, and as young White, who was on his way home, was passing, gins ran against him or jostled him. White said something to him, some words between them followed, and Higgins struck the young man in the face. The others of the party interfered, but in the scuffle that ensued, Higgins stabbed White in the breast, the blade penetrating the heart. The whole party then fled, leaving young White lying on the payement. He was picked up and carried to Goodman's Hotel, where he died in a very short time. An inquest was held upon the body, and a verdict rendered in accordance with what is above stated. Riggins has not yet been arrested.

PROMOTED.—Sergeant L. Day, of the 11th New Hampshire volunteers, who has been on duty at Barracks No. 1 for some time, in charge of transportation, has, we are glad to learn, received an appointment as Captain in the 125th United States Colored Infantry, Colonel Armstrong. He is a faithful man and good soldier, and will make an excellent officer.

SELLING LIQUORS TO SOLDIERS,-Timothy Hunt was arrested yesterday for selling liquors to soldiers, contrary to military order. He was released on taking the oath of allegiance, and giving bond not to commit a similar offense during the war.

KILLED.-A dispatch was received yes terday evening, from Covington, Ky., that G. C. Stein, who was formerly a druggist on Market street, in this city, and was well known here, was shot and killed in that place yesterday morning, while attempting to pass a guard. He has been in the army for some time and was on duty at that place.

DESERTERS ARRESTED,-Richard Kenney, company L, 10th Indiana cavalry, was arrested in the city yesterday as a deserter. Milo Hughes, company A, 66th Indiana, was arrested in Jeffersonville on a similar BARRACKS,-One hundred and ten con valescents reported yesterday, and fiftyfour recruits from Oswego, New York, Seventy-six men were transferred to Nashville, and fifty to Lexington.

We learn that the store of Mr. J. Pogue, at Metcalf's Landing, in Bracken county, Ky., was broken open a few nights since and robbed of two hundred dollars in gold. A fine horse and eighty dollars in silver and gold were also stolen from Mr. Lange, who resides about eight miles back of Metcalf's Landing. EDS. PRESS: In the spring of 1864 I obtained the permission of Aliss Charlotte Thompson to use her picture and name upon a label for a brand of cigars I was manufacturing, as a trade mark. Having obtained this permission I employed Messic, German & Bro., lithographers, to lithograph the labels. Their work was so unsatis actorily done that I was compelled to have the work done by others. The to have the work done by others. The Messrs, German having thus obtained the name and picture of Miss Thompson, and notwithstanding they had no right thereto, ithographed the label and sold it to dealers and manufacturers, and moreover applied for and procured a copyright therefor, and now continue to lithograph and sell the laoel, though it is a trade mark of my own and through Miss Thompson has deni hem, by letter, her consent to their use of her name and picture. Appeals are again made to the young men of the State to disregard their duty and risk their lives and honor in a wrecked and sperate cause, while men who have derted the rebel service and are now pear ly at their homes are required to rejoin their commands, again encounter the perils of treason under the threatened penalty of betrayal to the Federal authorities, who, they are taught to believe, will treat them

To counteract these efforts to mislead the men who have, in good faith, deserted the rebel service, all deserters from the rebel armies, now in this Department, will, within thirty days from date, report themselves to the Provost Marshal of the county in which they reside for registry. And all persons who may hereafter desert from the rebel armies and come into this Department will, within five days after their arrival report themselves for the same pur

Persons who refuse to present themselve for registry as required by this order will be understood as adhering to the rebel gov-ernment, and, if captured, will be treated as spies, guerrillas, or otherwise, according to the circumstances of the case.

New York, March 6.—The Tribune has extracts from Richmond papers. They contain no news from Sherman.

The Whig copies from the Raleigh Conservative a high compliment to General Johnson's ability, and the expectation that he will put a stop to Sherman's works. It thinks Sherman's movements through the country will unite the people against the Yankees, and intimates that the Confederate cause is thereby strengthened.

The Examiner says the present season is the wettest on record.

The Whig says that the Sentinel of yesterday states on authority that Secretary Trenholm will be gratified to receive dona-tions of money, bonds, plate and other val-uables, with the view of relieving the treasury and enabling it to pay some meritorious claims against the Government. The Sentinel calls to mind the many of-

The Sentiner cans to mind the many offers of contributions that have already been made, some of them of a liberal character, and all indicating the existence of a very general determination to come to the assistance of the Government in a practical manner.

The Whig declares the rebel treasury is nearly exhausted, and has issued nearly all the notes permitted by law. The army must be paid, and money must be raised to pay it. The only practicable way to accomplish the object is by getting money enough back into the hands of the Government. This can be done only by taking ment. This can be done only by taking advantage of the liberal and patriotic spirit which exists among the people. Contributions in any form will be received. Coin, plate, bonds, certiofiates of indebtedness and currency. But for the present purpose currency first, and then bonds, are preferable. It is intended to acknowledge these donations from time to time through the public journals. Comnittees of collection should immediately be formed in every town and county.

The Examiner says the hanging of Capt.
Beal, under the authority of Lincoln, is exciting deep indignation in this community, where the deceased had many

The Sentinel opposes the movement for a State Convention, and says the call for a Convention in North Carolina and Georgia is a form in which openly disloyal men of those States are making opposition to the Confederacy and exhibiting their treason in the name of the people. We call upon the House of Delegates to put its heel on the Convention scheme.

Sheridan's Expedition up Valley. Arrest of Three Private Families. Charges of Conspiracy Preferred.

NEW YORK, March 6 .- The Raleigh (N. New York, March 6.—The Raleigh (N. Journal of the 2d says: As the train left Wilmington our Whitworth battery, planted at the head of the market, was firing upon the enemy, who had appeared on the causeway upon the western side of Cape Fear river. Their main advance was then checked at Alligator Creek. Some few skirmishers pushed forward, but were driven off.

It is believed that Hapgood's brigade, with the exception of the 7th battalion, has been captured. Some accidental cases may have escaped. They probably have. They were on the coast side of Cape Fear. The other troops are on that side.

If the report brought us by telegraph that the small force left by him at Columbia has been expelled be true, then the repulse in front, should he suffer much, would probably render his affairs desperate in the extreme; but we will not speculate further in regard to matters which must cease to be matters for mere speculation soon.

The Herald's Winchester correspondent of the 3d inst, says of Sheridan's expedition up the valley a few days ago: Three Winchester families by the names of Sherrard, Lee and Bunnel were sent without our lines on the charge of disloyalty.

Lie allowed that they conspired together

It is alleged that they conspired together to get up a sociable ball, to which General Sheridan was to be an invited guest, and during its progress a detachment of Mos-by's guerrillas would secure the General, take him captive, and convey him to Richmond, also Kelly and Crook.

The plan was frustrated, and the ladies who concocted it are now in full commuion with those for whom they have exhibited such a warm sympathy. New York, March 6.—The Richmond Enquirer of the 3d has a long article showing that Sherman and Grant are to be beaten in detail, and then the independence of the Confederacy will be secured.

Gov. Vance is now actively at work in rallying the people and organizing resis-

ARRIVALS Monday, March 6. DEPARTURES.

THE FLOOD ABATING,-THE RIVER has been steadily rising since Sunday evening, the houses along Water street. From 7 A. M. yesterday until 6 P. M. the river had risen twelve inches, which was an abate-had fallen off to one inch per hour, and we think by this evening the river will have attained its highest point. Last evening at dusk it was fully thirty inches below the freshet of the winter of 1862, and some three feet below the high water mark of 1859, with fully felty force feet water in the chanwith fully fifty-four feet water in the chan-nel at the foot of the falls.

The great floods in the Ohio river were in the years 1832 and 1847, the former the highest by eight inches. The water then was from ten to twelve feet higher than now, and from the present indications the present freshet will attain its highest point to day, and the residents along the river need not apprehend much more of a rise, probably two feet.

The Kentucky river had ceased rising Sunday evening at Frankfort, and was falling fast yesterday.

At Cincinnati the river had risen 8½ feet

heet of high water mark.

At Pittsburg on Thursday evening last there were eleven feet water in the channel, there were eleven feet water in the channel, and falling. Since that period it had risen to a heighth of twenty-one feet, as we learn by a private dispatch, but at noon yesterday it was falling with seventeen feet water in the channel. The Pittsburg rise cannot increase the volume of water at this point very materially, if at all. But little business was done yesterday, as the boarmen had but slight opportunities to either receive or discharge cargoes, and the merchants along the cross streets below Main were kept continually busy removing their goods from the encroaching waters.

At dark last evening there was not a foot of wharf space from Third street to the canal, and the whole region along the Point above Second sireet was wholly sub-merged, presenting the appearance of a wilderness of muddy water. The Government depot and railroad track at the foot of Second street are still free from the encroachng tide.

SYMPTOMS.

The Symtoms of Catarrh are at first very slight. Perons find they have a cold, then they have frequent at. tacks, and are more sensitive to the changes of temperature. In this condition, the nese may be dry, or a slight hischarge, thin and acrid, afterward thick and adhesive

As the disease becomes chronic, the discharges are increased in quantity and changed in quality; they are now hick and heavy, and are hawked or coughed off. The secretions are offensive, causing a bad breath; the voice thick and nasal; the eyes are weak; the sense of smell is essened or destroyed; deafness frequently takes place. Another common and important symptom of Catarrh is that the person is obliged to clear his throat in the morning of a tnick or sliny muceus, which has fallen from the head during the night. When this takes place the person may be sure that his disease is on its way to the lungs, and should 1 se no time in arresting it.

The above are but few of the many Catarrhal symptoms
